

Occupational Therapy Doctorate Articulation Agreement

Biology, Psychology or Health Science Majors

JWU undergraduate students majoring in biology, psychology or health science may take advantage of an internal articulation agreement for admission to the JWU Occupational Therapy Doctorate (OTD) program. Students must successfully complete all requirements necessary to obtain a JWU biology, psychology or health science bachelor's degree and meet all OTD admissions requirements. Students must complete the OTD application process and must meet all health and immunization, background check and technical standards requirements. This agreement allows the OTD program to offer a guaranteed interview and to accept qualified JWU biology, psychology or health science candidates for admission to its graduate program leading to the Occupational Therapy Doctorate. More information and details of the agreement may be found in the Johnson & Wales University Articulation Agreement.

This articulation is available to students at the Providence Campus. Please see the Admissions Requirements section of the catalog for more information.
